DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is an exceptionally good-looking utility building. Stone masonry, 1 storied over a full basement, oblong, it has three bays by the facing north. The ridgepole of the ^{stone} hip roof runs east-west. Entrance steps on the north side are gone and the west entrance to the basement is open for storage. A towered belvedere is intact with ornamental "spire" posts here and over the triangular towered dormers that ventilate the upper floor (attic) on each face of the roof.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Years of neglect have made inroads on the building but its materials are durable and its proportions and design survive to date along with many details of trim. Built for a gas-house, its machinery may possibly be intact.

Shown on Lake Grilling & Stevensons Illustrated Atlas of Cecil County as Tom's gas house in 1877, (no school in sight) a greenhouse, lumber yard, office and bank - (his house up on High Street)
